What is this product?

Type

The product is a share of the sub-fund Retirement Allocation Fund – 2 (the "fund") which is part of the T. Rowe Price Funds SICAV (the "Umbrella Fund"), an open-ended investment company with variable capital (société d'investissement à capital variable) of the umbrella type, is governed by Part I of the Luxembourg law of 17th December, 2010, as amended ("2010 Law"), and thus qualifies as a UCITS.

Term

This fund does not have a maturity date. The manufacturer is entitled to terminate the PRIIP unilaterally, in the case of a full liquidation of the sub-fund. While the manufacturer is entitled to terminate the PRIIP unilaterally, it would not do so without due cause. One likely scenario is where the majority of a fund's investors redeem, rendering the fund uneconomic in size and needing to be wound up to protect the remaining shareholders' interests.

Objectives

To maximise the value of its shares over long term, through both growth in the value of, and income from, its investments, subject to changing risk profiles along the retirement journey. Moreover, the fund seeks to support accumulation prior to retirement and withdrawal over a long-term post-retirement horizon, while moderating the risk of principal loss.

Portfolio Securities: The fund is actively managed based on profile of clients who will retire within 10 years from the inception of the fund. The fund is a fund-of-funds investing mainly in T. Rowe Price bond and equity funds which provide exposure to various asset classes and sectors from anywhere in the world, including emerging markets. The fund's asset allocation will change over time in relation to the years to retirement and post retirement. The asset allocations are based on what the investment manager considers broadly appropriate to investors at specific stages of their retirement planning. The asset mix will be altered over time to meet increasingly conservative investment needs and allocations will continue to shift post-retirement date. By investing in other funds, the fund can have indirect exposures, among others but not limited to, shares and bonds from issuers around the world, including emerging markets, fixed and floating rate bonds, unrated securities, high-yield securities, asset-backed securities (ABS) and mortgage-backed securities (MBS), convertible bonds, ETFs, and other eligible securities. On an ancillary basis, the fund may also invest directly in the instruments listed in the paragraph above (up to 10% in each instrument type) and in other eligible securities. The fund may use derivatives for hedging, efficient portfolio management and investment purposes. The fund may use total return swaps (TRS).

Investment Process: The investment manager's approach is to pursue an asset allocation strategy that promotes asset accumulation prior to retirement and support regular withdrawals post retirement. After retirement, the fund is designed to balance longevity and inflation risks along with the need for some income, although it does not guarantee a particular level of income. The fund's equity allocation in general will decline over time as investors move closer to or deeper into retirement. This decreasing equity allocation will be overlaid with tactical asset allocation decisions to overweight or underweight a certain asset classes or sectors based on what the investment manager considers appropriate to the outlook for the global economy and market environment, seeking to mitigate risk and/or enhance return potential. Because the fund gains its exposure to various asset classes and investment styles through investments in its underlying funds, the fund's investment performance is directly tied to the investment performance of these underlying funds. Underlying funds may be sold for a variety of reasons, including to effect a change in asset allocation, realize gains, limit losses, or redeploy assets into more promising opportunities. In pursuing their investment objectives and programs, each of the underlying funds is permitted to engage in a wide range of investment policies and practices. As a result, shareholders of the fund will be affected by an underlying fund's performance.

The assets of the fund are held in safekeeping by its depositary. In the event of the insolvency of the Manager, the fund's assets in the safekeeping of the depositary will not be affected. However, in the event of the depositary's insolvency, or someone acting on its behalf, the fund may suffer a financial loss. This risk is to a certain extent is caused by the fact the depositary is required by law and regulation to segregate its own assets from the assets of the fund.
